How to lookup AC by model number

- ▶ For water source heat pumps type in the model number (dashes included and add an asterisk at the end) in the “Enter your model number:” box. Model number search should only be used when a SN is not available. With water source heat pumps you will tend to see more part numbers because it is pulling all parts regardless of options and should only be used as a last resort when looking up water source units as parts may have changed based on manufacture date of the unit.
- ▶ Manufacturing date is needed when doing a model search with the exception of air to air product. The system will generate search results for all components used to manufacture that model up to the date entered. You may experience the same component will have two different part numbers, this may be because the unit has been manufactured with different parts from model inception to the date entered.
